Bourgeois was confined to a chair, investigators and the chef was covered in grime, faeces and blood of skin. She was taken to Tallahassee Memorial HealthCare for treatment.

Bourgeois needed, and had been needing, medical services, food, nutrition and adequate supervision, but that had not been the case in this care setting. The report said.

It was not until Bourgeois started spending time with her mother, when she was in the hospital, that her mother had been able to move around and interact with other people in the care setting. The report said.
